Compare Your Options

As a new Colorado community college employee, you may select from two types of retirement plans offered by Colorado PERA. Whether you are comfortable investing for your retirement or would like professionals to invest on your behalf, Colorado PERA has an option for you.

What is Colorado PERA?

Colorado PERA was established in 1931 by the Colorado General Assembly, at the request of a group of State employees who foresaw the need for a safe and secure retirement system. PERA pre-dates the creation of Social Security, and as a community college employee, you do not contribute to that system, although workers hired after March 1986 contribute 1.45 percent of their pay to Medicare.

Colorado PERA serves over 400,000 public employees today. The PERA trust funds exceed $40 billion and are invested in Colorado and companies around the world on behalf of the PERA membership. PERA is governed by a 15-member Board of Trustees, 11 of whom are elected by the membership. The Board works closely with your elected officials to ensure the soundness of the State’s largest financial institution.

What Plans Does PERA Offer?

Colorado PERA has two types of plans—a defined benefit (“DB plan”) and a defined contribution (“DC plan”) available for eligible new community college employees. The DB plan is the traditional retirement plan, where your contributions are invested by professionals for you. In the DC plan, you direct your investments to an array of fund options.

Eligibility Requirements

Employees hired on or after January 1, 2008, at the institutions listed at the right may be eligible to participate in PERAChoice. If PERA has received contributions on your behalf from you and another PERA-affiliated employer in the last 12 months you cannot participate in PERAChoice and must return to the plan in which you previously participated. PERA retirees are not eligible to participate.

If PERA has not received contributions on your behalf in the past 12 months, and you are not a PERA retiree, you are eligible to participate in PERAChoice.
Making the Decision—DB or DC

The PERA DB retirement plan is a hybrid defined benefit plan. It is designed to attract and retain employees who are interested in working in PERA-covered employment for a large part of their careers, while providing greater portability than a traditional defined benefit plan.

Unlike the PERA DB Plan, the PERA DC Plan is based solely on the money you have contributed, the investment earnings or losses incurred, minus expenses. You have the flexibility to make investment decisions, which also means you assume the investment risks. The amount of your benefit can sometimes be difficult to determine given that the amount depends on the success of your investment decisions, when you begin withdrawals, and your life expectancy.

Over the years, PERA has worked with the State Legislature and others to address issues such as portability, cost of living adjustments, and overall improvement of the benefits PERA members receive. These changes have made the PERA DB plan more flexible and portable. PERA members and the State of Colorado benefit from a conservative yet innovative approach to public pension management.

The PERA DB and PERA DC Plans are both considered 401(a) plans and are created under that section of the Internal Revenue Code.

Defined Benefit Plan Features
- Lifetime retirement benefit
- Ancillary benefits such as disability and survivor coverage
- Plan invests for all beneficiaries, and individual contributors do not control the amount of their contributions nor their investments
- Also known as a traditional pension plan

Defined Contribution Plan Features
- The retirement benefit equals the amount accumulated in the account over time and the benefit ends when the account balance is depleted
- Employees contribute to a tax-deferred plan, making their own investment decisions
- Employees have their own unique accounts
- Plan type generally labeled according to the governing section of the Internal Revenue Code, such as 401(k), 403(b), 457, or a 401(a) plan

PERA Benefits At A Glance...

The Advantages of Membership in PERA

- Your PERA contributions of 8 percent are tax deferred, which means reduced current state and federal income taxes.
- You earn a fixed interest rate on your member contributions (currently 5 percent compounded annually). The rate is set by the Board and is subject to change annually.
- You receive a matching amount equal to 50 percent of your contributions and interest if you withdraw your account before retirement eligibility or age 65, or, receive a 100 percent match if you withdraw your account after retirement eligibility or age 65.
- Your qualified survivors will be provided a monthly benefit, between 25 percent and 50 percent of your pay, if you die after earning one year of service. Your beneficiary will receive a lump-sum payment of your contributions, applicable interest, and a 100 percent match if no monthly benefits are payable.
- You receive a lifetime retirement benefit after meeting age and service requirements (minimum age 55).
- You receive benefits equal to 2.5 percent of your average highest three years of salary for each year of service up to 100 percent.
PERA Defined Benefit Option

Even if you are a Colorado PERA member for only a short period of time during your career, your PERA membership is valuable to you. The following example illustrates how over a period of time, a PERA account will grow with compounded interest.

The example below uses Jim, a PERA member who earned five years of PERA service credit before terminating employment at age 30. Jim's annual salary was $30,000, with 3.5 percent raises per year. (Note: The refund and benefit amounts assume a 5 percent interest rate per year. The interest rate is set by the PERA Board and is subject to change annually.)

When Jim terminated employment, he had an account balance of $14,552 (member contributions and interest accumulated at 5 percent compounded annually for five years).

Jim has the option to withdraw his account as a lump sum when he terminates PERA-covered employment or leave it until he reaches retirement age. The amount of Jim’s refund, should he choose to withdraw his account prior to retirement eligibility, would be his account balance of $14,552 plus a 50 percent match, for a total refund of $21,828.

Jim also has the option of leaving his account with PERA, where it will continue accruing interest. At age 60, because he would be eligible for a retirement benefit, he would be eligible for a 100 percent match on his account balance and he could choose to withdraw the account or receive a lifetime monthly benefit.

At age 60, Jim’s account will have grown from $14,552 to $62,892 as a result of compounding over a 30-year period. With a 100 percent match, his refund amount as a lump-sum distribution would be $125,784.

At age 60, if Jim were to choose to receive an Option 1 lifetime monthly benefit, which is calculated by projecting his account balance over his expected life span, his benefit amount would be $745 per month.

Please note: Lump-sum distributions from the Plan will be subject to 20 percent federal tax withholding and, if you are less than age 591/2, a 10 percent early withdrawal penalty will apply. Ordinary income taxes may apply. State and local taxes and withholding may also apply. Further, most PERA members do not contribute to Social Security, so if an account is refunded, retirement savings for that period of employment are gone.

HAS is one-twelfth of the average of the highest annual salaries on which PERA contributions were paid that are associated with three periods of 12 consecutive months of service credit. Credit is earned for each month.

This publication provides general information about DB/DC Plans. PERA membership rights, benefits, and obligations are governed by Title 24, Article 51 of the Colorado Revised Statutes, and the Rules of the Colorado Public Employees’ Retirement Association, which take precedence over any interpretations in this publication.
Defined Contribution Plan

You can choose from a variety of low-cost, top-ranked funds in the Colorado PERA DC Plan. Remember that the key to successful investing is diversification, and in the Colorado PERA DC Plan, you have the ability to select your own funds based on your personal tolerance for investment risk, or you may select a lifestyle fund in which your fund allocation is done for you based on your anticipated retirement date.

Setting Up Your Account

You must set how your future contributions will be invested. To do this, go to www.copera.org and click on “DC Plan Asset Allocation.” If you do not do this, your money will automatically be invested in the Dodge & Cox Balanced Fund.

Web Site and Customer Service Center

Most Plan transactions and information requests can be made 24 hours a day, 7 days a week by accessing the DC Plan site through the PERA Web site at www.copera.org (click on Account Access) or by calling 1-800-759-7372 and selecting the DC/401(k) option. In each case, DC account access requires your Social Security number and PIN.

Participant Service Representatives

You may also speak with a Participant Service Representative any business day between 6:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. (Mountain time), excluding New York Stock Exchange holidays. You must use your PIN to get your account information from a Participant Service Representative.

Quarterly Account Statements

Every quarter, you will receive an easy-to-read statement that summarizes your account status, including your account balance, investment selections, and the current value of each investment. Or, if you’d prefer, you can generate a customized statement at any time on the DC Plan Web site.

Voluntary Plans

You have the option of enrolling in several voluntary plans including PERA’s life insurance, long term care, and health care program. You may also join PERA’s 401(k) plan, which allows you to make additional contributions to the same investment options as the DC Plan and you have access to loans and hardship withdrawals from your 401(k) money.

Distributions When Terminating PERA-Covered Employment

When you leave PERA-covered employment, you have several choices regarding the money in your DC Plan account:

- You can leave the money in the Plan.
- You must start distributions once you reach age 70½.
- You can request installment payments.
- You can roll over the balance to another qualified plan, 403(b), governmental 457 plan, or an IRA.
- You can take the money in cash, called a lump-sum distribution.

Distribution choices and rules are complicated. You are encouraged to talk with your tax adviser or financial planner before deciding how to take your distribution.

Note: Lump-sum distributions from the Plan will be subject to 20 percent federal tax withholding and, if you are less than age 59½, a 10 percent early withdrawal penalty will apply. Ordinary income taxes may apply. State and local taxes and withholding may also apply.
Benefits

Risks

Short-Term Funds

Short-term funds are generally made up of money market investments, certificates of deposit (CDs), and U.S. Treasury Securities.

Short-term funds offer a high degree of security, designed to protect your original investment or principal.

Short-term funds don’t offer the income potential of bond funds or the growth potential of stock funds, so they may not keep pace with inflation over time.

Bond Funds

Bond funds invest in many individual government and corporate bonds. Bond funds generally earn interest, which is also referred to as income or yield.

Bond funds generally offer greater income potential than short-term funds and not as much risk as stock funds.

Typically, bond funds don’t offer the growth potential of stock funds and are riskier than the short-term funds.

Stock Funds

Stock funds offer different investing strategies, ranging from conservative to aggressive, with varying degrees of risk and return potential. Stock funds invest in many different individual stocks.

Historically, stocks have provided larger long-term gains than other asset classes.

The value of stocks can go down over short periods of time. As a result, there is greater risk to your savings, including your principal, compared to other asset classes.

Lifestyle Funds

Lifestyle funds invest in a combination of all asset classes. One lifestyle fund provides your portfolio with adequate diversification and reduced exposure to market risk for the long term.

Lifestyle funds are designed to automatically make your investment allocation decisions for you based on your planned retirement date.

During the early years of your career, these funds invest more heavily in stock funds, which carry greater risk. As you near retirement, these funds automatically shift to an asset mix which has less risk.

Fees

Administrative and recordkeeping fees will be charged directly to your account. Administrative fees are charged directly to participants on a monthly basis based on the participant’s account balance as shown on the table at right.

Each investment fund charges an investment management fee, which participants pay directly by having the fee deducted from the investment fund’s return. Fees for each fund are listed in the Investment Funds Available table on the next page.

You may also obtain fee information on the DC Plan Web site or by calling 1-800-759-7372 and selecting the DC/401(k) option.

Types of Investments

If you choose to participate in PERA’s DC Plan, you have a variety of investment options to choose from. The table below explains the four main investment classes available to you. When building your portfolio, keep in mind your goals, risk tolerance, and time horizon for retirement. And remember, neither diversification nor asset allocation ensures a profit or guarantees against a loss.

This is a one-time option and the change can only be made in years two through five of participation in the plan. For more information, refer to the PERAChoice Years 2–5 Change/Transfer Form.
For Colorado Community College System employees only. You must submit this form to your human resources office promptly, but no later than 60 calendar days from your date of hire. The 60 calendar days start with and include your date of hire. To New Colorado PERA Members:

Welcome to membership in the Colorado Public Employees' Retirement Association (PERA).

As an employee of a public employer affiliated with Colorado PERA, you may or may not pay Social Security tax depending on whether your employer contributes to both PERA and Social Security. Colorado PERA is a qualified retirement plan that can substitute for Social Security, as required by law.

Upon receipt of this form, PERA will establish a member contribution account for you. You will contribute 8 percent of your salary to the account through payroll deduction. PERA pays interest on your contributions at a rate determined by the Board. The rate is currently 5 percent per year and is subject to change annually. Your PERA contributions are tax-deferred—that is, they are not subject to federal or state income tax until they are withdrawn or received as a monthly benefit. Your contributions and interest will always be returned to you, either in the form of a lump-sum withdrawal or a monthly benefit.

While our mission is to provide members with retirement benefits, we also provide the following other benefits:

- Monthly benefits to your qualified survivors if you die after one year of PERA service.
- Disability coverage after you have five years of earned service credit.
- A voluntary life insurance program in which you may participate immediately.
- A voluntary 401(k) plan in which you may participate immediately. Contribution limits change annually; additional contribution amounts are allowed if you are age 50 or older. For more information on the 401(k) Plan, please call 1-800-759-7372 and select the 401(k) option or go to PERA's Web site at www.copera.org and select "401(k) Information" located on the PERA home page.
- A voluntary long term care insurance program available to you and other family members.

After PERA receives this completed Member Information Form, we will mail you a PERA membership packet that contains details about your benefits. For more information about these benefits, go to the PERA Web site at www.copera.org.

When you end PERA-covered employment, you may leave your member contribution account with PERA (it will continue to earn interest). If you return to PERA-covered employment, your account will be ready to accept additional contributions and you will build additional service credit. If you leave your account at PERA be sure to keep us informed of your address to prevent your account from being transferred to the State's Unclaimed Property Fund.

If you were previously covered by PERA and withdrew your member contribution account, you may purchase service credit based on this refunded account when you have one year of earned service credit. You may also be able to purchase service credit for employment not covered by PERA or another pension plan. See the Purchasing Service Credit booklet for more information.

Again, welcome to Colorado PERA! We will strive to inform you about your PERA benefits by sending you the PERA Member Report newsletter three times per year, a statement of your account annually after your first year of membership, and other publications.

Beneficiary Information

Your designation can only be changed by you. Your divorce, annulment or any dissolution or declaration of invalidity of your marriage SHALL NOT revoke the beneficiary named below as your designated beneficiary unless you revoke the designation by submitting a new form. Colorado Revised Statute § 15-11-804 does not act to revoke a spouse’s designation as a beneficiary.

To change your existing beneficiary information, please fill in the name and relationship of the individuals you would like to designate as your future beneficiaries. A primary beneficiary is the person who is your first choice to receive your DC Plan benefits if you should die. A contingent beneficiary is the person who would receive your DC Plan benefits if your primary beneficiary should die prior to your death. You may name one or more primary and contingent beneficiaries. Your contingent beneficiaries will not receive benefits unless all of your primary beneficiaries predecease you.
